

WORK2015 – Gendering work

Chair:

Päivi Korvajärvi, University of Tampere, FI

Gender and work are entangled with each other. Work is embodied and person-related, and its repercussions to gendering society reach beyond the work itself. It is crucial to analyze, how gender has been related to work and how it is located in structures, meanings, interactions and subjects constituted and reconstituted in work. The questions of embodied work and ways through which the gendering of work takes place are topics of interest.

Thursday, 20 August, at 8.30-10.00 - Session 4

6.01

Un-gendering work: Female commercial car drivers in India, Breaking moulds, transforming selves
Nisha Dhawan, India

6.02

Young people and our future: Classed and gendered expectations
Minna Nikunen, Finland

6.03

The only way is up? How occupational sex segregation, occupational wage levels and occupational closure structure occupational mobility in Germany
Anna Erika Hägglund, Germany

Thursday, 20 August at 10.30-12.00 - Session 5

6.04

Challenging subjects at work? A discourse analysis of union strategies towards temporary agency work
Ann Cecilie Bergene, Norway

6.05

The gender landscape of the Taiwanese public sector workplace
Wei-Yun Chung, UK

6.06

Reproducing gender differences with a gender equality tool - categorizing women's and men's work
Minna Salminen-Karlsson, Sweden

Thursday, 20 August at 15.30-17.30 - Session 6

6.07

Reselection of engineering studies - are women in Finland opting out of technology?
Susanna Bairoh, Finland

6.08

The importance of corporate culture, gender and phases of life to attract and retain highly qualified engineering graduates in organizations

Karen Genz, Germany

6.09

The Double-Edged Sword of Women's Employment and Gendered Practices:

Lessons from Gujarat 1981-2011
Kathleen McGinn, USA

6.10
The BEST(a) intentions and everyday practices in organizations
Anna Fogelberg Eriksson, Sweden

Friday, 21 August at 8.30-10.00 - Session 7

6.11 Working through embodied affects
Päivi Korvajärvi, Finland

6.12 Gender Equality and Finnish Journalists from the 1960s to the present

Heidi Kurvinen, Finland